QC Supply & Gillis Ag Systems Unite to Form a Stronger Company

Schuyler, Nebraska – Two companies with solid reputations in the distribution of agricultural equipment, supplies and services have joined forces to better serve the livestock and poultry industry. QC Supply, headquartered in Schuyler, Nebraska, and Gillis Ag Systems based out of Willmar, Minnesota, and Storm Lake, Iowa, are looking forward to providing the industry with an expanded range of products along with improved engineering, technical support and installation service.

“With the Gillis acquisition, we will become a better resource for our customers,” said Lonnie Kitt, CEO of QC Supply. “We expect a seamless transition with all four Gillis brothers remaining on board and we will continue to provide the same standard of excellence that our customers have come to expect.”

The home office for the expanded company will be in Schuyler, Nebraska, with distribution centers in Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Missouri all continuing to operate under the QC Supply name. In the interim, the new Iowa and Minnesota locations will continue doing business as Gillis Ag Systems. In addition to the distribution centers, the company has farm stores in Schuyler and Omaha, Nebraska.
